Subhash Projects forays into urban transport

PM NEWS BUREAU .....

SUBHASH Projects & Marketing Ltd has announced it would diversify into urban transport infrastructure space including airports, metro rail and railway freight corridors. SPML has pre-qualified in various order bids for urban transport projects including metro rail in Kolkata and bus terminals in Bangalore and Orissa and car parking in Chandigarh, a company statement said.

The company is bidding for dedicated freight corridors in Bihar and Uttar Pradesh. In the aviation infrastructure space, it has received pre-qualifications for two airport terminal projects at Indore and Raipur by Airport Authority of India.

The diversification from the traditional stronghold of power and water management will yield results in the next two-three years. Commenting on the diversification, Subhash Sethi, Vice Chairman, said, "SPML is in a high growth phase with the opening up of newer opportunities in infrastructure. We aim to become a complete infrastructure solutions provider in the next few years."

During the current fiscal year, water management solutions will be SPML's immediate focus, Sethi said. Its service areas will focus on water management, technical studies, rehabilitation, 24x7 water distribution, concessional and public private partnership contracts in water utilities.

Incidentally, SPML took over water management of Latur town in Maharashtra with effect from July 1. Another water management project is under way at Bhiwandi in the same state. ■
